Interra Credit Union Promotes Phil Wiens to Chief Growth Officer

IMMEDIATE RELEASE, October 10, 2025 – After more than three decades of dedicated service, Amy Sink, Chief Executive Officer, is thrilled to announce the promotion of Phil Wiens to Chief Growth Officer. Known for his exceptional leadership, deep institutional knowledge, and unwavering commitment to Interra's mission, Wiens has been a driving force behind the credit union's continued success. A highly respected team member and mentor, he now steps into this key strategic role focused on advancing growth, innovation, and long-term member value.

In his new role as Chief Growth Officer, Wiens will be responsible for driving sustainable growth in lending and deposits through market expansion strategies, product innovation, business development, and overall revenue enhancement.

Phil Wiens

Wiens began his journey with Interra as a college intern and has since grown through a wide range of positions across the organization. He gained hands-on experience in consumer, mortgage, and commercial lending, and served as Branch Manager at the Wakarusa location when it first opened. Over the years, Wiens has held several key executive leadership positions, including Chief Operating Officer, Chief Lending Officer, and Chief Retail Officer, which contributes to the growth and evolution of the credit union.

A graduate of Goshen College with a degree in Business, and an alum of the CUNA Management School, Wiens brings a unique blend of institutional knowledge, academic training, and visionary leadership to the executive team.

"I am most excited about driving sustainable growth and ensuring our organization remains relevant amid the rapid evolution of the financial services industry," said Wiens. "Embracing innovation and adapting to change will be essential as we pursue new opportunities—while continuing to honor the roots and rich history that define Interra."

Throughout his impressive tenure, Wiens has consistently demonstrated a deep belief in Interra's culture and purpose. "I am inspired daily by the culture of Interra and the dedication of my colleagues," he shared. "Working alongside such passionate people, I'm proud of the meaningful service we provide—helping families and businesses in our communities achieve financial success."

Wiens lives in Nappanee with his spouse, Krista. They have two adult children, Kennedy and Cooper. Outside of work, he enjoys spending time with friends, traveling, and playing golf.
